

Real Life “Dr. Dolittle” to Tour Canada to “Talk” with Animals

By: Teresa McReynolds-Huang

Animal communications expert Claudia Hehr will hit the road this spring to bring “The Voice of the Animals” Canada Tour to communities across the country. The aim of the tour is to raise awareness about how people can really “talk” with animals.

Specifically, Hehr will conduct free educational presentations that will demonstrate to pet owners how they can easily communicate with their animals and improve their relationship with their pets. “Animals actually hear when we talk with them and anyone can help an animal in any situation by knowing how to correctly communicate with them,” says Hehr. “This information will reduce fear and stress, make the lives of humans and animals better and easier, and save many animal lives,” says Hehr.

The tour will also include an animal rescue component with the goal of finding homes for at least 100 homeless animals across Canada. Hehr will “interview” several homeless animals to discover more about their history and the type of home in which they would be best suited. The information gathered from these “interviews” will be posted on social media in the hope of finding loving homes for these abandoned animals.

Hehr has dedicated her life to helping animals and received training in animal communication, canine psychology and animal homeopathy. Her animal communication consulting business is based in Erin, Ontario but her client base extends as far as Europe and Australia. During the six-month tour she estimates to travel some 20,000 km. Out of love for animals, Hehr is offering all tour presentations for free and has traded in her apartment and possessions for a mobile home. As such, any donations to help offset her gas and other expenses are gratefully accepted.

If you would like to have the “The Voice of the Animals” Canada Tour come to your pet shop, animal rescue centre or other organization without charge or would like to donate to the tour, please contact Hehr at: 519-833-2382 or talk@claudiahehr.com.
